

The Viral Transmission Risk of Occupations in Austria and Its Implications for Automatability

Final Workshop of the OeNB-funded project

Date: February 20, 2025
Venue: WU Vienna, Welthandelsplatz 1, 1020 Vienna, Building D4, Room: D4.0.039.
Time: 09:45am – 02:00pm

Program

09:45 – 10:00 Registration

10:00 – 10:05 Welcome address

Session 1: Viral Transmission Risk and Automation in Austria

10:05 – 10:45

„Infection Risk at Work, Automatability, and Employment“

- Klaus Prettner, Professor of Economics at Vienna University of Economics and Business (WU) and Project Leader

10:45 – 11:30

“AI, automation, and the wage premium: Evidence from Austria 2015-2019.”

- Candace Barr, Postdoctoral Researcher at Vienna University of Economics and Business (WU) Funded by the Project

11:30 – 12:30 Lunch and Discussions

Session 2: Artificial Intelligence and Employment in Europe

12:30 – 13:15

“Artificial Intelligence and Employment: An Analysis of European Regions“

- Roman Stöllinger, Assistant Professor at Delft University of Technology (TU Delft), Previously Funded by the Project

13:15 – 14:00

“In-Demand Skills: A Shield Against Automation – Evidence from Online Job Vacancies“

- Tomáš Oleš, Assistant Professor of Economics, University of Economics in Bratislava

