

Prof. Barbara Sporn became Member of Academia Europaea

We are proud to announce that due to her outstanding achievements as a researcher the Academia Europaea invited Prof. Sporn to become a member.

On the 24th of May, the Board of trustees were honoured to authorise the election to membership of eminent international scholars. These scholars have been elected following a rigorous peer review process.

Election to the Academia Europaea is a personal honour that is a distinct recognition by international peers of personal excellence in science and scholarship within the European convocation of learned and professional scholars.

The Academia Europaea is an international, non-governmental association of individual scientists and scholars. The Academy is pan-European with elected members drawn from the whole European continent and some non-European countries. Members are grouped into four classes - Humanities; Social and Societal Sciences; Exact Sciences and Life Sciences. There are 23 multidisciplinary academic sections distributed between the classes. The Academia Europaea organises workshops, conferences, study groups; publishes the European Review and other academic materials; provides expert advice on European Science policy matters either alone and through the European Academies Science Advisory Council (EASAC) and the Sciences Advice for Policy by European Academies (SAPEA) project supported by the European Union Horizon Europe programme. The organisation is registered under UK law as a not-for-profit charity and Company limited by guarantee.
