Short course description	The research seminar accompanies the writing of the Master Thesis. Students discuss their envisioned explorations in small groups and with the lecturer in an opening event/day in beginning of March. During the colloquium students are encouraged to finish their exposés and exchange with their supervisors. A final two-day thesis colloquium (mid of June) is organized and coordinated where students present their status quo to their peers and faculty. Students need to problematize their thesis in a popularization project, to critically reflect on societal awareness.
