Reading List Management System

read!t - good to know

Why read!t?

read!t allows you to create clearly structured reading lists for your courses quickly and easily read!t makes it easy to check the library collection for titles on the reading list

read!t offers multimedia features and allows you to add comments and tags

Implementation (1/2)

- WU University Library in collaboration with Digital Teaching Services

- Orientation towards reference projects in English-speaking countries; WU is the first university in Austria implementing a reading list management system
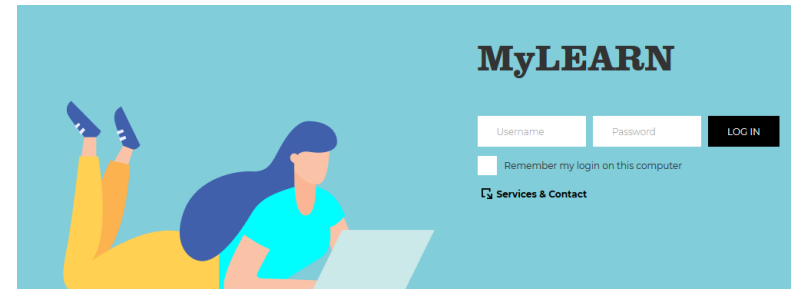

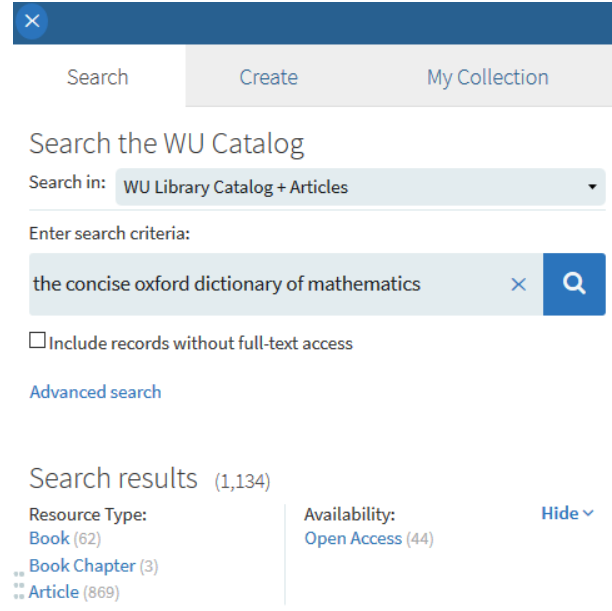

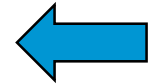

Implementation (2/2)

summer semester 2020	winter semester 2020/2021	from January 2021	summer semester 2023
first pilot phase	extended availability	activation directly in MyLEARN	read!t will replace the conventional way of publishing reading lists in MyLEARN

Creating reading lists easily (1/2)

- User-friendly interface (Icons, drag-and-drop)

- Add resources easily

  ❖ Search the WU library holdings
    (print & electronic) and add a title

  ❖ Pick references from databases, websites, etc.

  ❖ Search with ISBN, ISSN

  ❖ Add a title manually

Creating reading lists easily (2/2)

- Create collaborative reading lists with other instructors or tutors

- Transfer your reading lists from one term to the next quickly and easily

- Access via MyLEARN; reading lists are linked to the course syllabi and Canvas
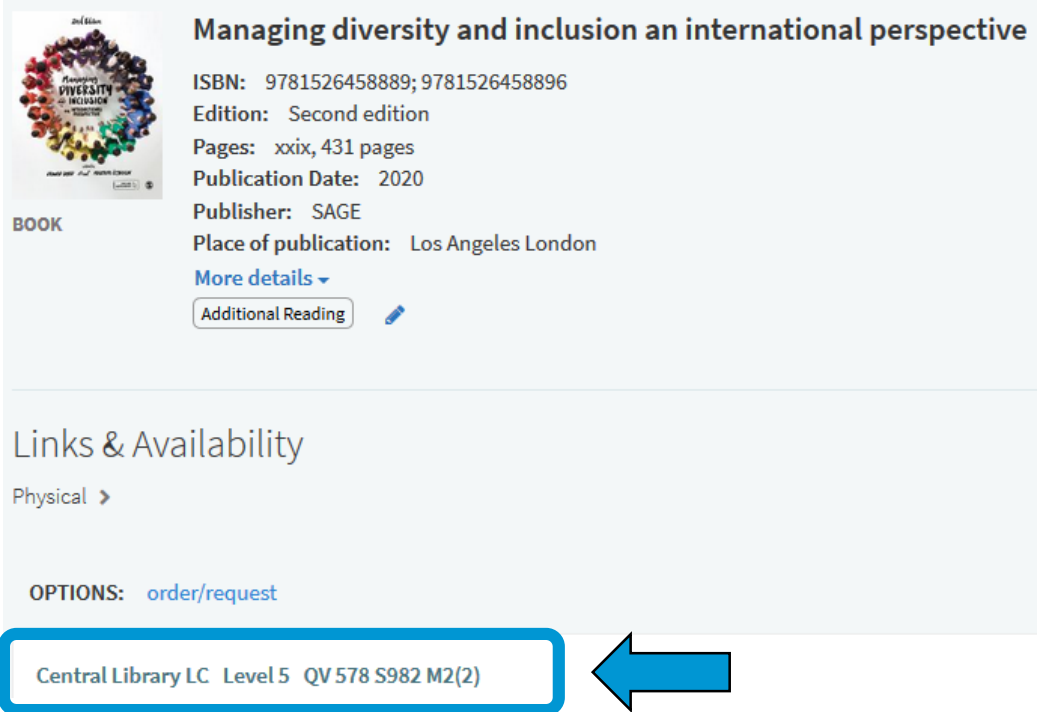

My Collection

- Possibility for instructors and students to create personal reading lists

  ❖ For subject specific collections

  ❖ As a temporary storage for literature you want to use later on

Direct line to WU Library

- The application shows you right away if the literature on your reading list is available in the library

- You can use read!t to inform the library quickly and easily of any new literature required for your courses
